

MIXED BLOOD THEATRE

Presents

DR. KING'S DREAM

A biography of Martin Luther King, Jr.

This brilliant depiction of the life and career of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. stars Warren C. Bowles in a stirring solo performance. It begins at the Lorraine Motel in Memphis on April 4, 1968, as Dr. King answers a young colleague's questions with an anecdote from the Montgomery bus boycott. The play instantly shifts to Montgomery and, over the next forty-five minutes, brings to life all of the dignity, courage, devotion, and humanity of a most remarkable American Leader.

Both the external events in Dr. King's career (the Selma and Birmingham demonstrations, the 1962 March on Washington, winning the Nobel Peace Prize, etc.) and his wide-ranging thoughts and opinions (on fear, non-violence, his children, the police, Malcolm X, and other topics) are included in Dr. King's Dream, as is his soaring "I Have A Dream" speech. Yet for all the historic and specific incidents, what emerges is the spirit of a man dedicated to racial equality through non-violence, dedicated to an ideal and to a dream.

On Martin Luther King, Jr.'s birthday, the Diversity Resource Action Alliance (DRAA) brings this FREE event to our community:

Friday, January 15, 2010

7:30 p.m.

Alexandria Technical College
Information & Technology Building
Auditorium 743

Event is FREE. Open to the public. No preregistration required.

www.diversitytoday.org

320-762-0221

1-888-234-1222